MERE MENTION.

From the daily of Monday.

Men and teams are at work with wheelbarrow, filling the depression on Eighth street, between Adams and Jefferson.

Mr. Frank J. Parker, of the Walla Walla Statesman, came in last evening and made a pleasant call at the OLYMPIAN office this morning.

One of the largest funeral processions that ever left our city attended the remains of Mrs. W. L. Clancy to their final resting place, yesterday afternoon. The Postal Telegraph Company have opened a branch office in the Capitol building, and are now prepared to transact business from either office with their usual promptness.

Col. S. L. Howlett, late Receiver of the U. S. Land Office at Yakima, is in the city, and it is said will be a strong Republican candidate for Senator before the first State Legislature.

While the steamer Willie was filling her water tank, at Hunter's Point on Saturday afternoon, being heavily loaded, she listed and sank, but was afloat and all right again in a few hours. She had freight to the value of about $3,000 aboard, a large proportion of which was flour and feed, that will prove a total loss.

Olympia may not contain a great many idle men, properly so designated, but there is no mistaking the fact that a force of expert saw breakers are finding lodgment in our city. The OLYMPIAN reiterates its former counsel and urges upon every household the necessity of guarding well its own premises. People who, like newspaper men, have large sums of idle coin on hand, should do as we do, and deposit it in the bank for safe keeping. Well secured doors and windows, a live dog and a double-barreled shotgun are after all, precautions not to be overlooked.

The residence of Judge Keady was entered last night by some unknown party for burglarious intent. He came through the woodshed door and thence into the kitchen, where he took a regular sit-down by the side of a large platter of cherries. The heap of cherries left on the floor would indicate that the hungry thief ate about half a gallon of the delicious fruit. Having dispatched the cherries, he began to saunter about on a voyage of discovery, when the creaking of a door awakened Mrs. Keady, who gave the alarm. The thief fled precipitately out of the house and through the gate which he had wisely left open.

Dr. York lectured to a fair audience at Columbia Hall, last evening, on the subject of "How to be Happy." The speaker gave many infallible ways of promoting felicity in the Earth-life, but very little if any hope of joys eternal. He handled orthodox with great gloves, claiming that all religious sects were bigoted and intolerant and subversive of the freedom of conscience which constitutes the highest type of American citizenship. The doctor is a fluent speaker, bold and aggressive in presenting his points and tenacious in maintaining them. His next lecture, Tuesday evening, will be on "Education, Marriage and Family," a theme which should interest everybody.

Another attempt to rob a safe occurred Saturday night, or early Sunday morning, at Alexander Farquhar's store on Adams street. The burglars effected an entrance through a small hole occasioned by the addition that is in process of building. In attacking the safe they did not find holes but used a chisel or other sharp instrument. Having made a small opening at the top of the right hand door, explosive material was inserted, a fuse applied and the door blown off. The parties had nearly succeeded in wrenching the inner doors open when the approach of the police caused them to seek safety in flight. The safe is badly damaged, and the burglars are evidently well posted in their business. The safe contained about $50, which fortunately was saved to the owner.

There is no more faithful companion than a well bred and well trained dog. Such an animal, the owner (provided he has paid the city tax) should be proud of, and in reviewing the many good qualities the friends of the owner could take a pardonable pride; but on some occasions they are as much out of place, and perhaps more annoying, than the pride of its mother at a theater. Let the dog be never so well bred and trained, he becomes a common nuisance when permitted to follow a funeral procession, chasing a lonely cow by the wayside or skipping, snarling and yelping at the strange dog that may chance to be out on the way. And when four or five are together on such occasions, chasing one another over the graves in the cemetery, and when the last hymn is being sung or solemn prayer being offered up, to have them dashing here and there between mourners, it would seem that common decency would suggest the propriety of leaving the dogs at home.

From the daily of Tuesday.

Look out for the kitchen burglar.

The Olympia stage is a thing of the past.

The prohibition lobbyists are hard at work.

Olympia merchants were surprised this week with new goods.

Physicians report a few cases of cholera infantum in the city.

Delightfully cool weather surprises sweltering visitors from the fervid east.

The OLYMPIAN's commonest sayings pass for oracles in Eastern Washington.

The members of the Territorial Board of Education are closing their labors.

Delicious Lawton blackberries are making their appearance in small quantities.

Prof. Swim, a member of the Board of Education, was taken quite suddenly ill last night.

The new brick kiln is progressing rapidly during the present exceptionally pleasant weather.

A good deal of baled hay is coming into town this week, and readily sells for $15 per ton, a fair remuneration for the labor of the husbandman.

The residents of Fourth street want the contractors to hurry up with that electric street railway.

A reservoir has been sunk in the middle of Seventh street, between Adams and Jefferson streets.

Samuel Williams' new residence is beginning to make a showy appearance, and will soon be ready for occupancy.

Would you have your children and your children's children call you blessed? Then do something for the railroad.

When the boom upon making up just below Eastside bridge, is ready for shipment, it will contain nearly a million feet.

The Olympia hotels are still so full that their proprietors are glad to use all the rooms in private dwellings that can be procured.

In the words of the preacher, "if you have anything to do, go about it and do it with all your vim, and then stop talking about it."

About 100,000 feet of clear cedar lumber has been rafted to this city from a Mason county mill, for use in the Olympia Flaming Mill.

Philosophical Chinamen are supplying their customers with a second crop of garden vegetables. They proceed on the principle that where there is a will there is a way.

To leave this city in the morning, take a noonday bath in Gray's Harbor and return home in the cool of the evening, will be an Olympian's privilege in the near future.

The Signal Service office reports: minimum thermometer, 54 degrees; maximum thermometer, 75 degrees; weather partly cloudy, no rain; barometer stationary at 28.85 inches.

Mr. William Hildebrand is putting down the foundation for a new building to be erected on the corner of Washington and Third street. It will be 44x60 feet in size, and two stories high.

Mr. F. W. Brown, the well-known railroad engineer, began this week to survey and plat a ten-acre tract of land on the Westside. The lots will be eligibly situated and eminently adapted to suburban residences.

An Olympia young man sparks his best girl in Tunwaver by telephone. An Eastsider beats that all to smash. He sits down with his girl just under the telephone wires and then pours out his soul in union with the acolian strains of the wires.

A special comes to the OLYMPIAN to-day, that Mr. Crawford Jamison, a brother of Hon. Robert Jamison, a member of the Constitutional Convention, was found dead in his bed at Whatcom, yesterday morning. Mr. Jamison has the sympathy of our entire community, in this hour of his deep affliction.

Messrs. W. R. Forrest, Thos. Prosch and U. R. Niles, representing the Board of Trade, the Chamber of Commerce and the City Council, of Seattle, are here to confer with the committee on State, County and Municipal indebtedness, and urge the placing of no limit on the debt which may be incurred by a city for needed improvements.

From the daily of Wednesday.

Sound travel is brisk.

Loose the old dog to night.

Fail not to give the house plants plenty of water.

Olympia merchants have been surprised with new goods, this week.

A son was born to the wife of Hon. T. M. Reed, Jr., at Seattle, last Saturday.

This is the time of year when sanitary regulations should be strictly enforced.

The rubbish that has so long encumbered the public square has been gathered into heaps and burned.

The blackboards at Collegiate Institute are being put in splendid condition preparatory to the opening of next term.

Mrs. J. J. Gilbert leaves to-morrow, to join her husband at his camp, where he is engaged in the Coast Survey Service.

The North Yakima people, with evidently a shrewd "eye to business," send the Constitutional Convention daily luscious cases of peaches.

Mrs. King and Miss Cecilia Blumear of Tenino, passed through the city, to-day, on their way home from Tacoma where they have been visiting friends.

Rev. W. E. Copeland, pastor of the First Unitarian Church, Tacoma, will lecture in Tacoma Hall, Sunday evening, July 21st, at 8:15 o'clock. Subject: "The Riddle of the Sphinx."

A reader of the OLYMPIAN fails to see how a letter of the ordinary shape should ever be called a "circular letter." It is perfectly plain. Such letters are designed for circulatory purposes.

The Olympia Review has been sold by Mr. Bessac to Mr. Rathbun, recently from Texas, who will continue publication of the paper at the old stand. Mr. Bessac retains control of the job office.

Deputy Sheriff Morrill left yesterday, overland, for the Insane Asylum, having in charge the crazy man, James A. Colan, who was found wandering on the streets of this city last Monday night.

The Signal Service office reports: minimum thermometer, 50 degrees; maximum thermometer, 78 degrees; weather cloudless, no rain; barometer rising from 29.90 to 30.02 inches.

A joint session of the Judicial district and Jefferson county Teachers' Institute convenes at Port Townsend, next Monday, and a number of Olympia Teachers and educators have been invited to take part in the exercises.

Complaint is made that small boys are out upon the streets of Olympia long after even adults should be in bed. "Where is my boy, to-night?" We just saw him dodge around the corner, dear madam, with a cigarette in his mouth.

A fair audience attended the second lecture of Dr. York, at Columbia Hall, last evening. His theme was "Education, Marriage and the Family," and it was ably presented. Friday night his topic will be the labor question, a matter which interests, directly or indirectly, everybody.

Old residents of Olympia will remember the serious illness of Mr. S. G. Hallibur, of Tacoma. Word comes that he has an attack of paralysis and lies in rather a serious condition. Being an old citizen of this city, she has the sympathies of hosts of friends in her affliction.

The enterprising proprietor of the Gold Bar Restaurant keeps steadily pace with the progress of the times. He has always maintained the best restaurant on the upper Sound, but late improvements have placed it far ahead of what it has been, and Mr. Cormier says the height of his ambition is not yet reached. New furniture is constantly being added, and all changes which experience suggests are at once made.

Mr. Joseph Souther died suddenly this morning, at the residence of Geo. S. Allen, where he had been living a number of years. Deceased was born at Fitchburg, Mass., June 10th, 1810, and was consequently a little over 79 years of age at the time of his death. He had been for many years a resident of Olympia, and was well-known as an industrious, hard-working old man. By careful management he had accumulated a good deal of property, but being a single man, little is known as to his relatives or antecedents. The funeral will take place at 9:30 A. M., to-morrow, Rev. Mr. Pope officiating, at the residence of Mr. Allen, and the remains will be deposited in Old Fellows cemetery.

From the daily of Thursday.

The Board of Education adjourned to-day.

Nobody but an Olympia croaker would complain of the present spell of weather.

It is in order now for school children to gather up their old books and trade them for new ones.

Work is being prosecuted to put the various schoolhouse in proper order for the opening of the school year.

The people on Fourth street, Eastside, are going to be supplied with a longwait water, a line of water mains.

The Olympia sawmill has been shut down to-day in deference to the funeral of its respected manager, Joseph Souther.

Apples, pears, peaches and plums are among the indigenous fruits now displayed in great heaps in Olympia markets.

The most unique looking structure in the city is the new Episcopal church. It is clearly Gothic in style and forcibly reminds the beholder of the architecture of the middle ages.

The Signal Service office reports: minimum thermometer, 52 degrees; maximum thermometer, 85 degrees; weather cloudless, no rain; barometer rising during the night and falling during the day to 30.02 inches.

The hay harvest has so nearly been finished that the farmers are assured that the field has been an abundant one, and the hay secured in splendid condition. All declare that the late rains proved the salvation of the crop.

In speaking of the big peaches raised in that section, the Walla Walla Journal says that fifteen of them weigh five pounds. Now let that peapert tell you how much one peach weighs. That is what the OLYMPIAN wants to know.

The following persons received Territorial certificates at the late Judicial Teacher's Institute held in this city: Mr. Francis A. Dumas, of Walla Walla; A. W. Budress, of Haddock; W. A. Payne, of Dayton; Miss Tina Johnson, of Seattle, and Edwin Brannner, of Dixie.

Next Sabbath, the Rev. Benjamin Parsons, of Seattle, will preach in the Presbyterian church of this city, on exchange with the Rev. Dr. W. B. Lee. Mr. Parsons has lately come to the coast from New York State, and has been installed as pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Seattle.

In a letter describing Evangelist Moody's school, at Northfield, Mass., the writer says, "A distance of three miles divides the boys' school, on Mount Herman, from the girls' school, in Northfield, separated by the Connecticut river." This is co-education of the sexes at a disadvantage. A board fence separates the boys and girls of this city at Collegiate Institute.

Rev. I. D. Driver, a gentleman well known to Olympians, writes a letter to the Oregonian from one of his eastern stopping places, and in describing his quarters, "a large and very finely kept hotel, built by a Boston company of religious men," the reverend gentleman says, "No man at this hotel is afraid to leave his pocket-book anywhere with any amount of treasure." Wonder if the new Olympia Hotel will ever receive such a puff as that?

The elegant and commodious steamer, State of Washington made her first visit to Olympia this morning, and left immediately on her return trip to Tacoma. The State of Washington is owned by the Pacific Coast Navigation Company, and commanded by Capt. Henry Bailey. Until further notice, this steamer will leave Tacoma at ten o'clock A. M., arriving at Olympia at about twelve M., and returning she will arrive at Tacoma at three o'clock in the afternoon. A safe and fast daylight steamer should be duly appreciated by the traveling public, and we hope that such will be the case.

Mrs. Daniel Varner died at her residence, in this city, last night, aged 54 years. The funeral will be held at the Presbyterian church on Saturday, at ten o'clock A. M. Deceased, better known as the widow of Solonius Garfield, was an old resident of this city, and through her first husband, widely known throughout the Puget Sound country as a lady of superior intellectual and social culture. She was a member of the Presbyterian church and united with her Christian profession one of the rarest qualities of true womanhood. She leaves five grown children; a daughter and four sons.

The highest excellence of mechanical skill is to be seen about the framework of the new hotel. Timber is now being used almost as fast as the local mills can furnish it from the raw material.

The Constitutional Convention. Pen-and-Ink Sketches of its Members.

EDWARD B. EDWARDS.

"Who is that man from Tacoma?" "That is Edward B. Edwards, a man of large, well-proportioned frame, a genuine son of Bonnie Scotland, aged about 60 years, and with his snow locks and ruddy countenance appears, what he really is, a fine specimen of manhood and a living exemplification of the virtue of temperate living. He is a veritable pioneer, for the time of his coming is hardly within the memory of the 'oldest inhabitant.' It is believed he has been nearly forty years since he first beheld the shores of Puget Sound, and in the language of a United States Senator in addressing a Seattle audience, 'admitted your magnificent forests and—canal trees,' and from that hour to this he has maintained a firm faith in the splendid and wonderful future of this great country. Although somewhat reticent, his fellow citizens have discovered that he possesses great ability, a well educated and informed mind and an earnest devotion to principles of rectitude, justice and equality; in other words, that he would readily stand the Jacksonian test of honesty and capability, and therefore they have sent him five different times to represent them in the halls of legislation, and both there and elsewhere he has always acquitted himself creditably and faithfully. His friends and neighbors would, as some expect a saint direct from heaven to be the subject of bribery and corruption as Edward Edwards. He is truly honest in all the walks of life, and his integrity and high regard for the principles of truth and its wise application. He may have his peers, but not his superior in many character, in this, the most important Convention in this country, and while he may not be heard very frequently on the floor of the Convention, yet when he does speak, it will ring of the right metal and will be replete with wisdom."

GEORGE W. THIBBETTS.

Is a delegate from Squak, King county, who possesses an exceedingly pleasant, intelligent face and gentlemanly bearing, which has won for him a host of admiring friends. A native of Maine, of medium height, of unexpected physical proportions, aged 33 years, in the vigor and prime of life. He has been an enterprising resident of the Territory for 17 years, engaged in mercantile as well as agricultural pursuits, notably hog-growing, and in all the walks of life he has attained a high reputation for integrity and reliability. He has served a term in the Legislative Assembly of this Territory, where he made a very satisfactory record. He was elected Brigadier General of this Territory, and is a very popular and valuable member of the Convention and will look well after the agricultural and business interests of the people.

LOUIS HOLMAN.

Of Vancouver, Clarke county, is a good specimen of a man, and of the Teutonic element in this country. He is a short, heavy, robust man, that has the appearance of good fellow. He is evidently a jolly, good fellow, with great deal of hand common sense, and a good business judgment. He is one of the "solid" men in every sense of the word, is a native of Germany, 62 years of age, wealthy, and principally employed as a banker and President of a railroad. He is married, and has resided at Vancouver for a long period. As a public speaker he is a failure, but he is patriotic and will do his best to have the State of Washington a good Government.

Mr. Holman has been a member of the Legislative Council, and Grand Master of the A. F. and A. M. He has been noted for many successful enterprises, chief among which, however, was the establishment of a large lumber factory at Seattle and Puyallup. He has been Mayor of Vancouver for six consecutive years. As a cordial friend and an honest man he takes high rank. His abilities in the report in regard to his never grow less. His colleague is

A. A. LINDEY.

Of Union Ridge, Clarke county, and a well-known Presbyterian clergyman of Portland. He is a native of Wisconsin, about 40 years of age, but is taken to be but little more than 30. He is engaged in farming, being especially interested in the raising of light weights, fair complexioned, with a handsome amiable face, that beams with intelligence and evinces every indication of the student and highly educated mind. As several of his admirers among the lady visitors at the Capitol, and others who have observed him on the streets, have inquired of him, he has replied, "I take great pleasure in making gentlemen known that he is a single man. If I am a judge of human nature, especially of the human face, I should pronounce him susceptible to bright ideas, and a man of high intelligence and the gentleness of the sex, and might be induced to exemplify in his life the false and libelous character of the popular statement that 'marriage is a hindrance to the advancement of the mind.' Much engaged at this time in promoting the political and moral welfare of his country to attend to such side issues. Mr. Lindsey has served as a member of the Territorial Legislature, and is an active conscientious member of the Convention, but is too modest and unassuming to be prominent as a politician."

J. J. BROWNE.

Is one of our exceedingly strong delegations representing Spokane county, and one of the most prominent men in the Convention. Tall, well-proportioned, in the very prime of life—his years numbering 45—with a very intelligent, pleasant face, a finely formed head, nearly bald, he presents a very striking and fine appearance. He is a native of Ohio. He came to the Territory about 1878 and engaged in the practice law, and specially attained an enviable reputation in that line, and success in his profession. He formerly practiced law in Portland, and was at one time a law partner of Hon. John B. Allen, but during late years he has been engaged in the real estate and banking at the present location of Spokane Falls, where he is known as one of the wealthiest, most enterprising and gentlemanly of its citizens. His charming wife and interesting family have accompanied him on this occasion. Mr. Browne is one of the readiest debaters and most eloquent of the august body of which he is a member. He is classed among the shrewdest, but the most honorable of politicians, utterly despising all political trickery and crookedness. In case the political party to which he is attached should have control of the first Legislature of the State, he would be a prominent and honorable candidate for the U. S. Senate. He will be heard in stirring and unmistakable tones before the final adjournment of the Convention, as he is deeply interested in many of the most important features of the great work in which he is engaged. Near him is seated the well known citizen of Thurston county.

JUDGE FRANCIS HENRY.

Who came to Olympia about 30 years ago, and has developed with the city and Territory. As the years have rolled on he has risen higher in the estimation of the people, and is now one of the most popular of our citizens. He is married, about 60 years of age, and a native of Illinois. Tall, spare, and thoughtful carriage and youthful in appearance, yet he is neither handsome, assuming in deportment, or especially attractive on first acquaintance, but he is liked and appreciated, both as a man and a friend. He has served several terms in the legislature and held other important offices of trust and honor, in all of which his record is highly creditable to himself and the pride of his constituents. He is at once the poet, the humorist, the philosopher, the lawyer, and the enterprising friend of productive labor and substantial progress. He is a sterling Democrat, in more than a party sense, as his sympathies are with the people, and is the prompt champion of their rights and interests. He is not a noisy member, and never takes the floor either to denounce or to hear himself out, but only when he has something to say and that to the point. He will prove a valuable and faithful member.

Our Law Framers.

FRIDAY, JULY 12, 1889.

The Convention met at 1:30 P. M. The President in the Chair.

Prayer by the Chaplain.

The following petitions were presented, viz: By the President—For equal suffrage; 499 men, 115 women. Dunbar—For prohibition.

President—From Jos. Ramsey, a form of Constitution.

Burk—To protect the oyster trade by purchase of land, etc.

President—For equal suffrage.

By Burke—City Council of Seattle against restricting its power to incur indebtedness.

Cosgrove—On agricultural education. Referred.

Reports from Standing Committees: Turner, from Committee on Judicial Department, reported an article of 28 sections for organizing and establishing a Judiciary. It provides for a Supreme Court consisting of three Judges, to be elected by the people; term, six years; vacancies to be filled by the Governor until elected by the people. Salaries of Supreme Court Judges, $5,000 per annum. It also provides for a Superior Court, with one or more Judges for each county, to be elected by the people. The term of the first Judges is fixed at three years, and subsequently for six years, with a salary of $3,600 per annum; vacancies to be filled by the Governor and the Judges are prohibited from charging fees on cases or commenting thereon, but must confine themselves to the application and interpretation of the law. They are also to appoint three Court Commissioners to sit on cases in Chambers. Justices of the Peace to be salaried, but shall receive no fees. The legislature has power to increase the salaries of Judges.

The minority reported concurrence in all of the report of the majority, except substituting five Supreme Court Judges instead of three, and fixing their term at four years instead of six. The report was laid over until to-morrow, and three hundred copies ordered printed.

Propositions and motions: By Jones—Giving the United States exclusive jurisdiction on all military and naval reservations.

Sukdorf—Relative to education; relative to State roads as distinguished from county roads.

Kinnear—In regard to elections by ballot and incorporating the Australian system.

Dyer (by request)—Providing for the continuance in office of all county officers for the term for which they were elected.

Allen—To provide an absolutely secret ballot and for embodying the Australian system; also, for the right of the people to bear arms, but prohibiting corporations from doing so.

Thibbets—For Australian system of voting.

Allen—Relative to time within which actions may be begun by the State against persons; also, to establish compensation of State and Judicial officers; and to qualify electors in voting.

Weisenburger—Prohibiting alien ownership of real estate except in certain cases.

Berry—For organizing the militia. All of which were appropriately referred.

The report amending the rules was taken up and adopted.

Moore, of Spokane, from Legislative Committee, asked leave to employ a short hand reporter—Mr. Pratt—to prepare their report. Granted.

Dyer offered a resolution extending the privileges of the floor to L. B. Andrews, a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1878. Adopted.

Adjourned to 9 A. M. to-morrow.

SATURDAY, JULY 13, 1889.

The Convention met at 9 o'clock A. M. The President in the Chair.

Prayer by Rev. Mr. Chaplain.

Petitions and remonstrances were presented as follows: Prosser—From Committee on Rules, reported and recommended certain changes in the rules. Postponed until Monday.

Durie—Relative to tide lands granted to settlers and Walla Walla Railroad; on division of counties and county seats.

Miles—On irrigation.

Dyer—On appointments and appointments to office; employment of children in mines and manufactories.

Power—On veto power.

Schneider—On amendment; 50 Senators and 100 Representatives.

Kinnear—On coal mines.

Jones—On exemption of property of municipal corporations from execution.

Allen—On Executive Department, providing for State officers to be elected by the people.

Gowey—In Legislative Department, with reference to solicitation and bribery.

Berry—On terms of Senators (six years); on defalcation and embezzlement.

T. M. Reed—On salaries of State officers and judges $5,000.

Hicks—On minority representation; on tide lands, against selling but for leasing the same; on marital law.

Turner—On special or local laws to be submitted to the people.

Kinnear—Against the importation of armed detectives; on election of public printer by the people.

All of which were referred to appropriate committees.

Prosser moved to take up the Report on Rules. Laid over until to-morrow to print.

Cosgrove offered a resolution for telegraphing to the Secretary of the Interior for definite information in regard to the boundaries of the State. Carried.

Griffiths moved to take from the table the resolution in regard to tide lands and mud flats. Carried.

The motion to refer to special committee was withdrawn, and the ayes and noes demanded on the motion to refer to Judicial Department. Carried, 37 ayes and 32 noes, and the question recurring on the passage of the resolution, it was lost, 31 ayes and 37 noes.

Turner, from the Committee on the Judicial Department, reported on the resolution to refer separate articles to the people, to the effect that the Constitutional Convention had the right to make such submission.

Adjourned to 9 o'clock to-morrow.

THURSDAY, JULY 18, 1889, 9 A. M.

The Convention met, the President in the chair.

Prayer by Chaplain.

Petitions and remonstrances: By Kinnear, from John C. Henderson, in favor of taxing church property.

Crowley, in favor of woman suffrage, from Committee of the United Brethren of Christ; in favor of woman suffrage, from the people of Dixie, Walla Walla county.
